Specialist Nurse Service in the Western Isles

This leaflet explains some of the ways in which the Dermatology Specialist Nurse Service can help with your skin condition.

About the service

The Dermatology Specialist Nurse Service was developed to support those in the Western Isles with skin conditions.

Regular clinics are held in the Outpatient Department at Western Isles Hospital in Stornoway.

The Service offers, in addition to a Dermatology Specialist Nurse, a Consultant from Raigmore Hospital who attends clinics once every two months.

Assistance to the clinics is also provided by GPs who have undertaken specialist dermatology training.

What does the service offer?

The Dermatology Specialist Nurse Service offers the following treatments:

- Liquid Nitrogen Cryotherapy
- Phototherapy
- Iontophoresis
- Wet Wraps/Impregnated Bandaging
- Topical Treatments
- Intralesional Steroid Injections.

You may also be referred for further investigations such as:

- Patch Testing
- wig/hair piece provision
- continued support, advice and education to enhance your prescribed treatment.

How can I attend?

If you require specialist advice/treatment you will be referred to the Service by your own GP for follow up treatment or support.

If you already have received a diagnosis from your GP you can self-refer to the Dermatology Specialist Nurse for further assistance.

The Nurse will see patients:

- At a clinic held at the Outpatients Department in Western Isles Hospital.
- Who are in-patients (those currently staying) in Western Isles Hospital.
- Who are staying in care homes.
- Within their own home, if required.
