CT scan with contrast

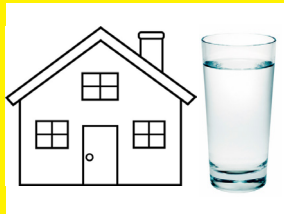

X-ray Department
Western Isles Hospital

A CT scan is a picture of the inside of your body.

No jewellery allowed.

We will tell you if you need to drink water at home.

Please come at the appointment time on your letter. You will be asked to wash your hands with hand gel and wear a face mask.

Follow the signs to X-ray.

Tell the person at the window in x-ray, that you have arrived. She is the receptionist and wears a green uniform.

The x-ray waiting room looks like this.

We will ask you to remove your clothes and put on a hospital gown in a private room.

The Radiographer does the CT scan and will be wearing a blue uniform.

The Radiographer will also give you an injection into your arm.

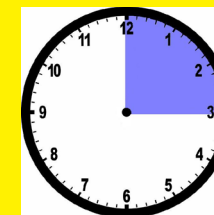

We will give you water to drink before your scan.

We will ask you to lie flat on the CT table for 20 minutes.

After the scan you can get dressed.

We will ask you to wait 15 minutes then you can go home.
